Part III: 閱讀測驗 (40%)

Did you know that a change in the weather can affect your behavior? For example, a Japanese scientist studied the number of packages and umbrellas left behind on buses and streetcars in Tokyo. He found that passengers were most forgetful on days when the barometer fell. Also, after studying patterns of car accidents in Ontario, the Canadians found that most accidents took place when the barometer fell. Other studies show that a sudden rise in temperature within a low-pressure area can lead to destructive acts, including suicide.

21. According to this passage, a change in the weather _____
 (A) is caused by the behavior of people.
 (B) affects the way people behave.
 (C) affects personal behavior only in Tokyo.
 (D) affects only those who ride buses and streetcars.
22. When the barometer fell in Tokyo _____
 (A) hundreds of people were injured by the falling debris.
 (B) people's memories improved.
 (C) people always brought umbrellas with them when they went out.
 (D) people tended to forget things on public transportation.
23. The studies mentioned in this passage show that changes in the weather produce all but which of the following?
 (A) temporary forgetfulness
 (B) a lack of coordination in car drivers
 (C) a reduction of pressure at work
 (D) suicides
24. It can be inferred that when the barometer rises _____
 (A) more people will commit suicide.
 (B) people will be able to concentrate better.
 (C) people will suffer less pressure.
 (D) people will not drive as much.

The monster came toward us with twice our speed. We gasped in amazement. We were awed and silent. The animal came on, playing with the waves. It circled the Abraham Lincoln, and then moved away two or three miles, leaving a bright wake. All at once it rushed from the dark horizon toward the ship with a frightening speed. When it was about twenty feet away, the light suddenly went out, and then appeared on the other side of us, as if the monster had gone beneath us.

26. In the above paragraph, what do you think the monster probably is?

- (A) A ship
- (B) An elephant
- (C) A whale
- (D) A giant wave

27. What does the name Abraham Lincoln stand for in this paragraph?

- (A) An animal
- (B) A ship
- (C) A big fish
- (D) A famous person

28. What is a wake?

- (A) It is a kind of light.
- (B) It is a tail.
